

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

The present invention describes an aperture comprising an opaque plate with a central opening and at least one peripheral opening and a method for combining an on-axis component and at least one off-axis component of illumination light.